(1st November, 1936, to 31st October, 1937.)

CHAPTER I.

General and Political.

(A) INTRODUCTORY.

The Kishangarh State lies almost in the centre of Rajputana between 25°-49' and 26°-59' N and 74°-40' and 75°-19' E. It has an area of 858 square miles. Except for small isolated patches, the territory consists of two narrow strips which together are 80 miles in length from north to south and have a breadth varying from 20 miles in the centre to about 2 miles in the southern extremity. The northern portion is sandy and is crossed by three parallel ranges of the Aravalli Hills. The southern portion is generally flat and fertile. During and immediately after the rains, a few streams contain water, while for the rest of the year all of them present sandy beds. The population figure according to the census of 1931 is 85,744 souls. The annual average of gross revenue excluding Jagir lands is in round figures Rs. 7,50,000/-. Politically the State forms part of the charge of the Resident at Jaipur. The Maharajadhiraj of Kishangarh is entitled to a salute of 15 guns. The State pays no tribute to the Imperial Government.

The Ruling family are Rathore Rajputs of the House of Jodhpur having marriage alliances with Udaipur, Jaipur, Bundi, Alwar, Sirohi, Jaisalmer, Dungarpur, Partabgarh and Jhalawar. The present Maharajadhiraj, who is the 18th ruler of the State, is His Highness Umdae Rajhai Buland Makan Maharajadhiraj Maharajah Dikshit Yagyanarayan Singhji Bahadur. He was born on the 26th January, 1896, and was educated at the Mayo College, Ajmer, where he passed the Diploma Examination, standing second in order of merit. Laying of the foundation stone of the Veterinary Hospital at Kishangarh.

The foundation stone of the Veterinary Hospital was laid by the Hon'ble Lieutenant-Colonel Sir George Ogilvie, K.C.I.E., C.S.I., C.I.E., I.A., on the 9th October 1937. The Chief Member in requesting him to lay the foundation stone read the following speech:—

“SIR GEORGE OGILVIE, AND GENTLEMEN,

I have great pleasure in rising to welcome our distinguished guest the Hon'ble Lieutenant-Colonel Sir George Ogilvie, K.C.I.E., C.S.I., C.I.E., I.A.

Sir George would shortly be retiring from the service of the Government of India, and I believe I am voicing the sentiments of all present when I say that we are very sorry to lose him. The only consolation is that retirement will bring him an opportunity to enjoy rest in his dear home, which he richly deserves after the hard work and strenuous life in various highly responsible positions during his long service in the Political Department. It hardly needs mention here that he has been a very kind friend during the tenure of his office both as Resident in States and as A. G. G., and his characteristic suavity and sincerity of purpose have won him many friends, who during their lifetime cannot forget the charm he produced by his friendliness. The sorrow, therefore, that is felt at his departure, is very real all round and the Kishangarh State shares it with other sister States of Rajputana, more so on account of the fact that he has been a very valuable and esteemed friend of our Maharaja. His Highness has always felt rich in his friendship and the sorrow that he feels at his personal loss on account of the departure of Sir George is incalculable. It is a matter of special pleasure to mention that Sir George paid a visit to Kishangarh at the time of Hindora Utsava in the time of His late Highness and was much delighted to have Darshan. Let us assure him that thereby he came much nearer to the hearts of the Kishangarh people.

It is with these feelings, Sir, that we have dared request you to kindly pay us a visit here. It is a matter of real regret to us that Lady Ogilvie could not find it possible to oblige us with her company on this occasion.

Gentlemen, we have all met here this morning to do honour to our distinguished guest here. We are very grateful to him for obliging us with a visit before his departure from Rajputana, and for agreeing to perform the foundation-laying ceremony of the Veterinary Hospital in Kishangarh. He is well known for his kindly feelings towards "Jivamatra" and we trust that the institution, the foundation of which he would shortly be laying, is to his liking. The need of raising a Veterinary Hospital in Kishangarh has for some time been felt; but for some reason or the other it could not be taken up earlier. You, Sir, by your kindly undertaking to oblige us by laying its foundation-stone would not only be letting your good name be associated with this institution, but along with it, the memory of the feelings of "Gharoopa" you have maintained with our Maharajas will long remain with us.

We have at present small dispensaries for animals in the stables and Dr. Ram Singh has been doing good service not only by looking to the health of the animals belonging to the State, but by paying visits to places affected by animal epidemics, giving necessary instructions and distributing medicines etc. But more is required to be done. We have, therefore, in anticipation of raising this institution, already sent a candidate to be trained as Veterinary Doctor in the Bengal Veterinary College, at Calcutta.

A word now, Sir, about the site selected for raising this hospital will perhaps not be out of place. The choice has fallen on this place as it is outside the town but near it, and on the main road to Madanganj but just away from it; our cavalry headquarters are not very distant from it; similarly the State Tabela is not far off.

I now request you, Sir, to kindly oblige us by laying the foundation stone of the Veterinary Hospital in Kishangarh and permit us to name it as "Sir George Ogilvie Veterinary Hospital, Kishangarh."

In fine, I pray that the Almighty God may grant Lady Ogilvie and yourself many years of health and happiness in your rest and retirement and if you, Sir, come back to India, pray forget us not, but extend to us the same "Gharoopa" feelings and make it a point to visit Kishangarh.

Before I close, let me express a feeling of earnest hope that in the hands of your successor-designate, who is no stranger to us, and of Mr. Wylie, our Resident at Jaipur, who has kindly accepted our invitation and is here, the interests of the Kishangarh State will be as safe as ever at this juncture when important political changes are pending decision."

Sir George Ogilvie then stepped to the place where the foundation stone was to be laid. After Puja ceremony the foundation stone was laid and declared to be well and truly laid. Sir George then spoke as follows:—

"Dewan Sahib, and Gentlemen,

I am very sorry that owing to indisposition His Highness the Maharaja has been unable to grace this function with his presence. His absence has, I am afraid, robbed it of half its brilliance and influence. I am sure that I am voicing the wishes of all present here when I say that I trust that he would very soon be restored to his health. I thank you most sincerely for the very kind words in which you have asked me to lay the foundation stone of the Veterinary Hospital in Kishangarh and I am deeply grateful for the sentiments expressed by Dewan Sahib in his speech. I can assure His Highness and the Dewan Sahib and others who are here present that I appreciate their kind feelings towards me very very greatly. It has given me great pleasure to come to Kishangarh and stay in His Highness' hospitable Guest House. Since I came as A. G. G. in Rajputana, I have never spent a night in Kishangarh and that was only because you were near neighbours, and I could come over from Ajmer whenever I wished to see His Highness. In this way I have visited Kishangarh 5 or 6 times in the last four years. But I could not leave Rajputana without living in Kishangarh once and enjoying His Highness' kind hospitality. My only regret is that this will be the last occasion on which I shall be visiting Kishangarh and my old friend, His Highness the Maharaja, as Resident for Rajputana. His Highness is a very very old friend of mine and it is very troubling to me to say good-bye to him and to this great State. With the laying of the foundation stone of the Veterinary Hospital in Kishangarh I shall carry away with me a sense of great pleasure that this so essential a requirement of an agricultural State like Kishangarh will be associated with my name."
